

Respect Your Try Lyrics - MLM

You ain't have to be perfect, you're allowed to still look for your purpose,
In the mean while you could still be learning, on how to become the best version of you,
And how will you do in the future?
Who do you want to be when you look at yourself as a person? (whoa)
And I know that can hurt cause, you'd have to admit to yourself that you're worth it,
And that carrying all of those burning burdens, even though they still might be burning won't any longer hold up the curtains, that block people off of your life, but if you fake everything are you really alive?
You don't have to dump everything onto your friends,
That might not be right, but if they're loyal they'll do anything to get you a light

Everybody has to try,
Before they can rise and fly,
Above everybody else, as long as you don't lose your sight,
On that what just might,
Be the key to yourself respect when you learn to respect the outcome of every fight,
When you gave everything and tried,
Chose to survive and haven't died,
You don't have to hide, take responsibility for your achievement,
And when you'll learn to respect your effort, that'll make you shine bright
Yeah, yeah

I know I have this obsession with progression,
Cause I have to be perfect and it's upsetting,
When the pressure is too heavy and I'm lacking
The motivation to keep my dedication going while the world is rotating,
And my masks keep faking and I can't stop hating myself
And keep on draining all my energy, while there is no more in the making,
Like emptying a lake while it's never raining
Like my demons looked at my happiness and said, that what I'll be taking

I'm scared and don't wanna go again, cause I think that I'll be breaking

Everybody has to try,
Before they can rise and fly,
Above everybody else, as long as you don't lose your sight,
On that what just might,
Be the key to yourself respect hwen you learn to respect the outcome of the fight,
When you gave everything and tried,
Chose to survive and haven't died,
You don't have to hide, take responsibility for your achievement,
And when you'll learn to respect your effort, that'll make you shine bright
Yeah, yeah

I know it's easier said than done,
Cause if you grow up with an extreme low self esteem,
Even trying your best isn't a whole lot of fun,
But the only person you should compare yourself with is you,
So how do you do, compared to the version of you from last year
And thinking you're not enough, I know that fear
But staying in that headspace, not taking action, while you should be relaxing
Does also not help you in any case,
So go ahead, work all of your demons out of the way